

G4S is here to support you.

There are many variables to consider when thinking about securing your business.

Mobilizing security personnel quickly

Unforeseen circumstances can put considerable strain on resources for a number of industries. Our highly-trained security personnel can provide extra security to help mitigate difficult situations. G4S is extending its disaster services program to customers who are experiencing shortages due to staff illnesses or law enforcement officers being called to other duties. G4S can help whether you have an in-house security program or are utilizing another contract.

Using technology to support social distancing

As state and local governments are mandating social distancing as a new norm, G4S can help identify and install technology solutions that enable you to continue securing your people and assets, while adopting a new way of doing business. Technology solutions can offset staffing shortages. Technology solutions such as remote video monitoring, touchless exits, access control systems, and identity solutions accessible from home, are just a few ideas that G4S can provide quickly and efficiently, with little disruption to your business.

Keeping your vacant property secure

If you need to secure an empty building, facility or area, consider a technology solution that includes remote video monitoring. G4S can permanently or temporarily install security systems that are monitored through our centers by trained operators in real-time. Personnel in the G4S Risk Operations Center can remotely respond in real-time to alerts and alarms that are received through video, access control or other networked security systems turning your video management system from a reactive to a proactive security measure.

Protecting your assets during times of uncertainty

Sites on remote locations could be a target if civil unrest occurs. G4S can help with daily situational awareness reporting, leveraging social media analysis and intelligence monitoring. G4S will deliver immediate assistance from across the globe. Risk Operations Center operators work 24/7 on requests to deploy G4S assets can provide immediate access to critical information to ensure business continuity.

Regardless of the challenges, G4S is committed to working closely with you to identify the risks you face and to help you build a plan to mitigate them.
